

A message from Rabbi Daniel Victor

"When we reopen the synagogue there needs to be someone at the doors checking everyone in, everyone who comes in has to carry a smile, and the volunteer has to say, welcome back," said by a child of the congregation.

It has been seven weeks of isolation; individuals and families being relegated to their homes and kept away from open gatherings, whether sacred, social, recreational, or vocational. Yet communities have shown resilience amidst challenging times. Major holidays were significantly altered but were nonetheless marked with joy and dedication. Secular and religious milestones are being held virtually, and with zest, true to the adage, "The show must go on."

But how long can we keep up community morale? The saying, "This too shall pass," is losing its hold on the spirit. We are now at an inflection point along this difficult path, and it is time to decide as a community how to move forward during this next phase. This process will require careful thought and dialogue as we try to apply practical guidance while honoring our core values. There is intense pressure and yearning to re-open quickly, but the burden is upon us to respond responsibly for we will be held accountable for every step we take

What is the focus of our strategic plans for reopening? A well-thought out plan must address things like shifting rates of infection and mortality, or the progress in developing treatments and even a vaccine. Yet hearing about the "measurables" that will lead to a plan for the restarting of physical proximity is only the beginning.

Our plan needs to reflect our values, and we will have to decide how central those values are to any decision making process. One value upon which our movement puts a premium is "Sakanat Nefeshot -- "Endangering Life," which refers to our leaders (clergy, staff, and volunteers) not being put in positions where they will be unduly endangering their own lives or the lives of their families due to pressure to restore activities. A second is "Kol Yisrael Areivim Zeh Bazeh -- We Are Responsible for One Another," which charges each of us to look out for the mental and physical health and safety of one another. We must be sure that we act in ways in which clergy, staff, and participants do not feel discriminated against, or unduly disadvantaged, based on health or other conditions of need.

Beyond the values we will need practical guidance. We must consider seating, flow and crowd control. What about prayer books? What will be done regarding bathroom facilities and proper ventilation in meeting rooms?

Our leadership has created a team to develop a plan that represents our values of health and safety, respect and community. We sincerely ask for your patience as we develop our plan to move forward. Our clergy, staff, and lay-leaders are open to hearing your feelings, ideas, comments, or suggestions. We are dedicated to empowerment and inclusion, and we know that the wise person listens to, and learns from, everyone.

I believe it is a blessing that we have so many places to turn for comfort, education, and inspiration. Your leadership, synagogue, community, and movement, are here to provide YOU with support, direction, connection, and encouragement.

I am confident that the path to standing together once again as a kehilah kedusha (a sacred community) will emerge soon, and when it does, we will walk it together. In peace and safety,

Rabbi Daniel Victor

FROM TBE PRESIDENT DONNA GORDON

Psalms 16:8 -
Shiviti YHVH l'negbi tamid.

"I set the Eternal before me always"

As a community, country and world we are in the midst of a challenging and uncertain period. In the recent past, we have been able to come together to support and comfort each other. However, right now we cannot. Staying apart is what will keep us, our loved ones, and our community members safe. It's a very difficult adjustment for most of us.

I can honestly share how difficult it has been for me. Not being able to gather as a community to pray, to see the aron kodesh (the holy ark) being opened and hearing the Torah being read makes me feel a bit lost. While having virtual services online does help to make me feel somewhat connected, it doesn't replace standing together in prayer or socializing during Kiddish. It feels like a small part of me is missing. But what keeps me going is recognizing the resilience and the determination of the Jewish people, and others around the world when faced with enormous adversities. Jews, have maintained practicing beliefs and traditions and maintaining a sense of connectedness during the darkest times in history, and we will continue to remain strong today and in the future.

I remind myself that Temple Beth-El exists outside of the walls of the physical building because WE are Temple Beth-El. We are continuing our traditions. We have transitioned to virtual morning minyan and Shabbat services. Our religious school has also gone online. While we have been unable to come to together, and while you may feel as I do about this, I want us to affirm together – We are strong, we are resilient, and we will get through this! There will be a time when we will be standing side by side again. Let's keep moving forward knowing that G-d is always before us, guiding our path and protecting us.

A Note From Susan Canning, Director of Operations & Programs

As I finalize this bulletin, the office staff is starting our 3rd month working from home. Most of us sit in improvised home offices, calling you from our cell phones, or communicating via email, while kids and pets interrupt.

Since mid-March when we closed the Temple Beth-El building, we have been hard at work finding ways to keep our community together during trying times. We are always thinking about you and how your families are holding up during this very stressful time. Kathy Lorenz, office assistant, has been in touch with many of our congregants, making sure you are OK and know how to reach us. If you receive a call from her on her cell phone, please pick up, she is not a spammer!

The staff has been meeting using Zoom and on Teams, on Facetime, text and via email. We are still getting used to operating in this strange new "all tech" reality. These days we don't discuss kiddush sponsors, instead we are scheduling webinars or Zoom B'nai Mitzvah. I am working with the TBE house committee, staff and lay leaders on best procedures to re-open the temple building, including the office, services and school. We are tasked to figure out how and when we can safely hold temple programs in person rather than via zoom. Please understand this will be a slow process, as the health and well-being of our community is vital.

It may be many more weeks before we are back in our synagogue building. The staff and leadership directory is on page 2 of this bulletin. Please keep in touch, and know that we are here for you if needed. Stay well, and I hope to see you in person soon.

Tikkun Olam Project

The 4, 5, & 6 grade class, which meets on Sundays for Judaic Studies, decided to take on a Tikkun Olam (repairing the world) project this year. A company in Indiana, Green Tree Plastics, collects plastic bottle caps and turns them into commercial grade outdoor benches.

The class continues to collect clean caps which are recycle #2, #4, #5. When we have collected the number of pounds required, we will turn the caps in to the company and get the bench of our choice. The bench will be put in the backyard where the children play for recess.

This project will most likely take the whole year to collect, sort and weigh the caps. Students are an integral part of the process utilizing their math skills as well as skills in cooperation and visual sorting according to a particular criteria.

Please be sure to adhere to the criteria for cap collection. The caps must be clean and dry before turning them in to us.

A collection bin is in the Temple Beth-El lobby with a poster and pictures of acceptable caps. Continue to collect and bring them in to the TBE building when we reopen.

Thank you for supporting our Tikkun Olam project. Morah Beth Richardson and the students in grades 4, 5, 6.

Dear Temple Beth-El,

Thanks for the beautiful, moving, recollections you wrote in the memory book I received. Those recollections are a lasting reminder of the place and people where I and my immediate family grew during the greatest part of our lives.

I wish you all the best,

Stan Dickstein
